Autopsy Performed by: M. Michael Dorr, M.D., Pathologist

CLINICAL DIAGNOSES

FINAL ANATOMICAL DIAGNOSES

Primary Diagnosis:

1) Signs of anoxia manifested by thymic petechiae, pericardial petechiae and pulmonary hemorrhages.

Comment: Intrauterine fetal death appears to have been the result of anoxia probably secondary to umbilical cord compromise. The latter was found to be looped around the infant's shoulder and neck.

The diagnosis of preeclampsia was used on an outpatient follow-up sheet of the mother. Information available to this examiner does not support the diagnosis. However, the patient's blood pressure did drop from 140/80 mm Hg pre-delivery to 106/70 mm Hg post delivery. Whether or not this apparent relative hypertension was related to fetal death is unknown.

A sudden [illegible] without loss [illegible] during [illegible]

APPROVED: Date 3/4/81 Pathologist M. Michael Dorr

M. Michael Dorr, M.D.

HISTORY

The female infant was stillborn after nine hours, 20 minutes of labor. The dead infant was passed per vagina. The umbilical cord was found to pass across the infant's back over the shoulder, under the arm, loop up and around the neck, and pass back beneath the arm.

The Gravida I Para 0 mother was felt to be in good health. Her husband is diabetic. The fetal heart tones were found to be absent the day prior to delivery. At that time she felt nauseated. The next day she was admitted in labor with the cervix 90% effaced and the bag of waters intact.

The mother was a nonsmoker, rubella immune, and toxoplasmosis negative. Her blood type was A positive. The hemoglobin at admission was 13.7 gram per 100 milliliters with a hematocrit of 40.7%. Although prior urinalyses and the urinalysis at this admission were negative glucose and protein, one earlier record sheet included in the chart from January 12, 1981 had the diagnosis of "pre-eclampsia" listed on it. At that time the blood pressure was 140/84 and the urinalysis was normal. There was no further information to substantiate the diagnosis of pre-eclampsia. The blood pressure at this admission was 140/80 and it dropped to 106/70 following delivery. The weight at delivery was 165 pounds as compared to 166 pounds on January 12, 1981.

Our Dad, Thaddeus Porowski

Our Forefathers

Piotr H. J. Porowski, our grandfather on our dad's side, was born in Poland on June 21, 1896. Marya Kardysz, our grandmother, was born in Poland on October 10, 1898. Little is known of the forefathers of Piotr and Marya, or Peter and Mary as we knew them here in America. Peter often said to his daughter Helen, Dad's sister and our aunt, that the past and all that has been accomplished was good, but it is finished; it is the past. It is what one does now and in the days ahead that is important. Peter's parents were Bartlomej Porowski (1854-1903) and Florentyna (Sobota) Porowski (1864-?). Florentyna was Bartlomej's second wife.

Grandpa and Grandma Porowski grew up in Poland at a very difficult period in that country's history. Poland was not officially recognized as a country for a period of about 200 years until 1919 when new borders were drawn up at the signing of the Treaty of Versailles after the First World War. Until then, Poland was divided among the Russians to the north, the Austrians to the south, and the Germans to the west. Grandpa Porowski came from the town of Nur, about 60 miles to the northeast of Warsaw. He loved nature, hiking, science, literature and the fine arts, and spent much of his time painting landscapes of the daily life around him. Because of the Russian occupation, the schools were not allowed to teach Polish, and so Peter was forced to grow up learning Russian. One day during his late teen years he and a friend fled from Russian soldiers who intended to conscript them into the army. They fled and hid in a large haystack. The soldiers thrust their bayonets into the haystack but, despite getting his arm cut badly, Grandpa remained silent until the soldiers gave up the search. Not long after, he headed for America and the dreams that lay ahead, never again to return to Poland. He came by way of Canada, having landed there and traveled soon after to the United States, ending up in Chicago where a large Polish community had already been thriving for some years.

Grandma Porowski was born in Mielec, to the south of Warsaw in Poland. In those days, that portion of Poland was occupied by the Austrians. Her father's last name was Kardysz. He died sometime not long after Grandma was born. Grandma's mother married again to a man whose last name was Nowak. Later on, Grandma came to America with her family, landing at Ellis Island sometime around 1915. The family settled in New Jersey, but some, including Grandma, continued on to other places. As with Grandpa, Grandma ended up in Chicago because of the large Polish community and the hope of work there.

Grandpa and Grandma met each other during their early years in Chicago and were married on October 2, 1920 in a Catholic wedding ceremony, both being born and raised Catholic. Dad was born the next year on July 30, 1921 in Chicago. His sister Helen was born on May 11, 1927, also in Chicago.

Grandpa wanted to make a living as a fine-art painter, but for financial reasons he spent his whole working life as a machinist for H.R. Fischer, an x-ray company. It was a typical job for many Europeans. Poles were known for their craftsmanship skills, and many worked in the factories of Chicago. But Grandpa loved to paint, and as often as he could he would paint in and around Chicago, as well as make trips when he could to Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota for vacations to paint, hike and explore the area. He often entered his paintings in art shows in Chicago, and was well-respected for his style and skill. It was said that he would always make sure before he sold a painting that the buyer really cared about the work and would cherish it.

Early Years

Dad's early years were hard. The family was fairly poor, and many things were not easily available. The depression hit in 1929 and affected the Porowski family as much as other families. Fun things to do were not easy to find. Dad and Aunt Helen would make do with whatever they might find at hand. Perhaps the family was somewhat poor financially, but certainly not culturally. Aunt Helen feels Grandpa was overall the most intelligent person she ever knew, Dad being the second. Grandpa took Aunt Helen and Dad to museums a lot, and they learned lots of things at a young age. Grandpa and Grandma loved to read. Each brought many books from Poland, despite the weight, and stored them in a trunk in the kitchen in their home in Chicago. Grandma would often open the trunk in the evening and read novels until late into the night.

Aunt Helen remembers that once every month Grandpa brought home an x-ray machine from his work, have the family one by one put on black goggles, and then zap them with the x-ray, figuring that it was beneficial for them in destroying potentially dangerous germs.

Dad loved to read all kinds of literature, including mysteries and Indian stories. He collected Indian arrowheads with his dad, and joined some Indian clubs as a young boy. Dad got involved in Boy Scouts as he grew older, and in those years met some guys who all remained friends throughout the rest of their lives. Dad eventually attained Eagle Scout, an accomplishment not easy to come by.

Dad and his family lived on Lee Place in Chicago during his early years. Lee Place was in a mixed but predominantly Italian neighborhood. An Irish family lived above them, a Bohemian family below them, and Italian and Ukranian families nearby. Later they moved to Rice Street, in an area known as Ukranian Village. Dad went to Crane Tech High School, an all-boys school that he enjoyed very much. Afterwards he attended Central YMCA College in Chicago and earned his Bachelor of Science in physics and chemistry in 1943.

World War II was on, but the government allowed him to complete his degree before having to enlist. He was called into the Army in 1943. After a year of preparation at Texas A&M, Dad served in the signal corps under General Patton in France and Germany during the Allied push toward Berlin. As far back as I can remember Dad was always good at electrical things, fixing this and that. During World War II his job was to establish communication lines on the front lines. Often the enemy would destroy the communication lines, and he and his corps would have to repair them, often working all through the night under cover, and then having to march the next day with the troops. Exhausting! After the surrender of the Germans in 1945, Dad was shipped out to California to be part of a major offensive against the Japanese. Soon after his arrival in California, the US dropped the atom bombs on Japan and the Japanese surrendered, sparing the Allied Armed Forces what many felt would have been a horrific and bloody invasion of mainland Japan by sea. He rarely talked about his war years, but saved some of his gear his whole life, perhaps not wanting to part with it because of its significance in his life.

The scout troop he had been in during his teen years was number 39. Many of the guys, including himself, stuck together as friends for his whole life as a group they called the 39'ers. We kids can remember them getting together almost every Friday night through his whole life, sometimes at our house, sometimes at other men's houses. We can also remember their annual or semi-annual family picnics they held in different forest preserves outside of Chicago.

Mom and Dad's Early Years Together

After the war, Dad returned to the work force. He worked for a short while for Argo Starch in Chicago as a chemist. In the summer of 1948 he decided to take some extra courses at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. There he met Mom in an arranged meeting set up by Ed and Dorothy Rowe, Dorothy being a cousin of Mom's. Mom had spent a semester at John Hopkins University in the nursing program, but, deciding that nursing wasn't for her, went to Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Iowa and graduated in 1947, earning a Bachelor of Arts degree in Music as well as a Bachelor of English degree. At the time she met Dad, she, too, was taking some summer classes at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. For about a year they dated. Mom taught in a school in Earlville, Illinois, near Leland for 2 years from the fall of 1947 to the spring of 1949. After meeting Dad she began commuting back home by train (not many people having cars in those days) to Albany Park in Chicago each weekend to be with her folks Paul and Marie Dibble and to spend time with Dad. They eventually married on August 13, 1949 in Chicago, Illinois. Our Grandpa Dibble was the pastor of the Albany Park Methodist Church where the wedding was held. Since Mom wanted him to walk her down the aisle, she and Dad had our great-grandfather James B. Dibble, a Methodist Minister for years, perform the wedding ceremony for them. Dr. Kingham, Mom's godfather and a dear friend of the family for years since her family's time in India, assisted. Mom and Dad spent their honeymoon in Door County, Wisconsin, traveling there by train and staying in a little town called Ephraim. There they both had fun and it was there that they both rode horses for the first and only time!

They settled in central Illinois in Urbana, where Dad received his master's degree and finished two years towards his doctor's degree at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana. Mom quit her teaching job after they got married. Anne was born to them on August 9, 1950 in Urbana. Next Dad got a job teaching science for a year in Leland, and there Irene was born at the hospital in nearby Sandwich on April 1, 1952. Later Mom and Dad moved to Decatur, Illinois, where Dad got a job working for Staley's Corn Products as a chemist, and it was there that I was born on January 9, 1954. The Staley job was a very good one for Dad. He excelled there and even got some patents for the company.

Looking for a change, Dad and Mom moved closer to Chicago in the summer of 1954 to a town called Wheaton, well known for many things including a fine Christian college called Wheaton College. It was in Wheaton that Dad and Mom bought their first house, a new three bedroom, one story home on the west side of town. And it was there that Jim was born on January 25, 1955. Dad got a job as a chemist at Velsaco, a chemical engineering company which was later purchased by Amaco. He commuted every day to Evanston where the company was based. The job had many good things about it, and he excelled there like at his other jobs, but he had to quit because of side affects from chemicals such as nosebleeds and bad headaches. Amazingly, during his time there three chemists died from some of the chemicals. Next he worked as a chemist for Dietzgan, which was later purchased by Bell and Howell.

Dad eventually made a career change to teaching, first working at Wheaton High School and later at Wheaton North High School. I can remember how Dad often brought us to the football and basketball games at Wheaton High. Living in Wheaton and closer to his folks in Chicago, he often drove into the city on Saturdays to visit, sometimes taking one or two of us kids with him. He also spent time around home fixing up the house, adding a patio to it, planting cherry trees, strawberries, and other plants, and had a driving passion for reading the newspaper and other magazines and books to keep informed of current events. He loved growing vegetables each summer and picking cherries and strawberries in the backyard every fall. And we shall not forget the famous cheese-cloth that Dad would spread over the cherry trees and strawberries towards the end of each summer to keep the birds from the ripening fruit. He also often went to forest preserves around Wheaton to pick raspberries or blueberries in the evening, taking Jim and me or all of us kids along. How we hated the mosquitoes!

In the summer of 1966 we moved to Arlington Heights, Illinois. Dad got a teaching job at Forest View High School, on the suggestion of a friend named Dick Stanowski. Mom and Dad bought a nice one story brick house with a separate garage and a small but nice yard. It was hard in many ways for us kids, having made such good friends and having spent twelve years together in Wheaton. But it proved to be a good move. We kids managed to make it through high school (!) and eventually all of us moved away from home: Anne went for two years to Monmouth College in Illinois and graduated from American University in Washington, D.C. Irene graduated from Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa, married Ken Meewes, and after 2 more years in Iowa, headed on to St. Louis where they had 2 boys, John and Daniel. They later moved to Attleboro, Mass., near Boston. I went to Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, Illinois, got my art education degree and taught two years at Wheeling High School, during which time I met Kathy Thiessen. We got married and had two girls named Christine and Kimberly. In 1986, after eight more years in Palatine, Illinois working mostly in land surveying, we moved to California, where we have lived ever since. Jim went to Harper College for one year and then transferred to Texas Christian University where he graduated. Later he went as a Bible Teacher to Nigeria for a year and a half, returning to get a degree at Dallas Theological Seminary. Back in Arlington Heights he met Ginny Colberg in the church we were all part of. They married and had four girls named Stephanie, Jody, Corine, and Bridget. Later Jim did post-graduate studies at George Fox University in Portland, Oregon and then moved with his family to Raleigh, North Carolina.

Later Years

After we kids left home, Dad continued teaching at Forest View High School. For three adventurous years Dad and Mom worked in their Polish bookstore they had opened in Jefferson Park near Chicago. Dad had wanted to do it for years, and finally took the plunge. After three years of hard work they ended the store. All in all, the business just about broke even financially; nevertheless, despite the difficulties that went along with it, Dad often spoke of those years as fulfilling.

Dad was very active in later years in the reunions of the Signal Corps he was part of during World War II. He also was involved in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, working hard to see a cemetery opened up at Fort Sheridan for armed forces veterans.

In 1992 Dad was diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. After an operation and some chemotherapy treatments, things appeared to be looking up. Sadly, two years later there was a return of the cancer, and after a long fight, Dad died on October 17, 1994. He was cremated and later interred in the Veteran's Memorial area in Memory Gardens Cemetery in Arlington Heights, Illinois. Mom remained in the house there on Dunton Avenue in Arlington Heights for five years, taking care of the place where she and Dad had spent so many years together, and then moved to California to be with my family and me.

POROWSKI, Baby Girl

MICROSCOPIC DESCRIPTION

CARDIOVASCULAR SYSTEM: A section of heart shows a normal myocardium free from necrosis and inflammation. The pericardium shows focal interstitial petechial hemorrhages. No inflammation is seen. The endocardium is unremarkable.

RESPIRATORY SYSTEM: Sections of lung show a normal histologic organization. There are multiple focal hemorrhages throughout all sections of lung. The hemorrhagic areas comprise roughly one-half the cross sectional area on the slides examined. The nonhemorrhagic lung tissue shows marked capillary vascular congestion with some smaller numbers of extravasated intra-alveolar red blood cells. There is no red blood cell nucleation. The tissues appear viable. No viral inclusion bodies are identified.

GASTROINTESTINAL SYSTEM: Sections of small bowel, colon, stomach, and esophagus are unremarkable. The liver is congested and shows evidence of extramedullary hematopoiesis. It is otherwise unremarkable.

A section of pancreas shows prominent postmortem autolysis. A few focal areas of chronic inflammation are seen within the pancreas.

GENITOURINARY SYSTEM: Sections of kidney show a normal infant histology. Vessels are congested.

A section of fallopian tube and ovary is normal. The ovary contains large numbers of primordial follicles and a few developing follicles. A section of uterus is unremarkable. The endometrium is flat and without glandular formation.

HEMATOPOIETIC SYSTEM: The spleen is congested but otherwise unremarkable. Sections of lymph nodes associated with other organs previously examined are unremarkable. The thymus is also normal appearing.

Sections of bone marrow show normal erythrocytic and myelocytic elements. The bony spicules are developing out of a cartilaginous infra structure.

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM: Sections of adrenal glands are unremarkable.

PLACENTA: The umbilical cord contains three normal appearing vessels and is free from inflammation. The placenta contains areas of prominent intervillous fibrin deposition. The villi not affected by this are normal in size and show normal syncytial knotting. Capillary vessels are prominent. There is no evidence of viral inclusion bodies or inflammation. The chorionic plate and chorioamniotic membranes are normal.

CENTRAL NERVOUS SYSTEM: Despite the fact the brain was very soft, the sections show good preservation of the tissues. Cell morphology is well preserved. No abnormalities are noted. Cerebellar Purkinje cells which usually show early signs of anoxia in an adult look reasonably normal.

CLINICAL DIAGNOSES

FINAL ANATOMICAL DIAGNOSES

Primary Diagnosis:

1) Signs of anoxia manifested by thymic petechiae, pericardial petechiae and pulmonary hemorrhages.

Comment: Intrauterine fetal death appears to have been the result of anoxia probably secondary to umbilical cord compromise. The latter was found to be looped around the infant's shoulder and neck.

The diagnosis of preeclampsia was used on an outpatient follow-up sheet of the mother. Information available to this examiner does not support the diagnosis. However, the patient's blood pressure did drop from 140/80 mm Hg pre-delivery to 106/70 mm Hg post delivery. Whether or not this apparent relative hypertension was related to fetal death is unknown.

FORM L-50 — PHYSICIANS' RECORD CO., BERWYN, ILLINOIS · 17211

HISTORY

The female infant was stillborn after nine hours, 20 minutes of labor. The dead infant was passed per vagina. The umbilical cord was found to pass across the infant's back over the shoulder, under the arm, loop up and around the neck, and pass back beneath the arm.

The Gravida I Para 0 mother was felt to be in good health. Her husband is diabetic. The fetal heart tones were found to be absent the day prior to delivery. At that time she felt nauseated. The next day she was admitted in labor with the cervix 90% effaced and the bag of waters intact.

The mother was a nonsmoker, rubella immune, and toxoplasmosis negative. Her blood type was A positive. The hemoglobin at admission was 13.7 gram per 100 milliliters with a hematocrit of 40.7%. Although prior urinalyses and the urinalysis at this admission were negative glucose and protein, one earlier record sheet included in the chart from January 12, 1981 had the diagnosis of "pre-eclampsia" listed on it. At that time the blood pressure was 140/84 and the urinalysis was normal. There was no further information to substantiate the diagnosis of pre-eclampsia. The blood pressure at this admission was 140/80 and it dropped to 106/70 following delivery. The weight at delivery was 165 pounds as compared to 166 pounds on January 12, 1981.

AUTOPSY FINDINGS

EXTERNAL DESCRIPTION: The infant weighs 4140 grams and measures 51 cm crown-heel, 40 cm crown-rump, 33.4 cm head circumference, 35.5 cm. chest circumference, and 33 cm abdominal circumference. The facies are unremarkable. The eyes are brown. The lips and palate are intact. The anus is perforate. The external genitalia are normal appearing female. All extremities are present in their normal anatomic location and digits are found in their normal number. There is an excoriation on the right cheek measuring 2.2 x 1.7 and a smaller similar lesion immediately above and medial to it. There is some evidence of skin slippage and bulla formation of a mild degree. The occipital skin is swollen and edematous.

INTERNAL DESCRIPTION: The body is opened with a Y-shaped incision. The normal thoracic and abdominal organs are found in their usual number and location. No cavity fluid is present.

CARDIOVASCULAR SYSTEM: The heart is of normal size, shape and gross appearance. The major vessels enter and leave in a normal anatomic fashion. The ductus arteriosus and foramen ovale are patent. The ventricular septum is intact. The cardiac valves and coronary arteries are unremarkable. Several perivascular petechial hemorrhages are seen from the epicardial surface. The heart weighs 21 grams.

RESPIRATORY SYSTEM: The larynx, trachea, and main stem bronchi are unremarkable.

The right lung weighs 48 grams and the left lung 40 grams. Both are somewhat violaceous and very solid, without evidence of aeration.

GASTROINTESTINAL SYSTEM: The esophagus, stomach, small bowel, large bowel and appendix are unremarkable. Meconium is present.

The liver is violaceous. The cut surface is unremarkable. It weighs 196 grams.

The gallbladder contains normal appearing bile. When the gallbladder is compressed, bile flows freely through the ampula of vater.

The pancreas is unremarkable.

GENITOURINARY SYSTEM: Both kidneys show fetal lobulation externally. The right weighs 12 grams and the left 16 grams. The cortical medullary junction is distinct and the cut surface is unremarkable. The ureters follow a normal anatomic course and the urinary bladder contains unremarkable appearing urine.

A normally formed uterus with fallopian tubes and ovaries is present.

HEMATOPOIETIC SYSTEM: The spleen weighs 18 grams. Its cut surface is unremarkable. The thymus appears enlarged, measuring 15 cm. It fills the anterior mediastinum and extends through the cervical outlet up to the isthmus of the thyroid gland. Some superficial petechiae are present.

No lymph node enlargement is present.

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM: The adrenal glands are grossly unremarkable. The thyroid gland is grossly unremarkable.

CENTRAL NERVOUS SYSTEM: The scalp is retracted and the calvarium is entered by opening through the unclosed sutures. The brain is soft, but grossly normal appearing externally. It is removed and found to be grossly normal on appearance.

PLACENTA: The placenta is oval and has a single eccentrically inserted umbilical cord which contains three normal appearing vessels. The segment attached to placenta measures 13.5 cm in length and a segment attached to the fetus measures 66 cm. The placental memebranes show meconium staining. The maternal cotyledinous surface is intact and the fetal surface is unremarkable. There is no evidence of excessive hemorrhage.

Mr. Richard Porowski
1606 E. Clemensen Ave.
Santa Ana, CA 92705

Dear Mr. Porowski:

I am enclosing some material on two individuals:

JOSIAH NELSON

You had originally given me the name of your Patriot ancestor as Henry Josiah Nelson, b. 1732 in Mass. And d. Jan 23, 1807 in Mass.
I checked the DAR Index and found Josiah Nelson (see enclosed) b. 8-16-1732 in Mass. and d. 1-23-1807 in MA, married Elizabeth Thayer. He served as a Mass. Lt.
Since the dates are so similar, I assume that your Henry Josiah Nelson is the same as that listed in the DAR Index. If you have not already done so, you should order a copy of that DAR Application. It costs only $5.00. I have enclosed the DAR form in case you have not already ordered their Application. I have also enclosed a photocopy of the DAR Index showing the listing for Nelson.

There are also a couple of other enclosures on Josiah Nelson. There is a record of an article in the "American Genealogist, Vol. 46 of April 1970. This would probably be available at major libraries, especially libraries like the L.A. or Huntington Beach Libraries. Apparently there is also an abstract of graves that lists Josiah Nelson.

ASA B. DOUGHTY

Apparently your Asa B. Doughty is listed in the 1870 Census for Wabasha Co., MN and the reference number is given. Unfortunately, I do not have the MN 1870 Census. You could probably get it by a vist at the Family History Center on Yorba St. or by making a visit to the National Archives at 24--- Avila Rd., Laguna Niguel. As you know, the 1870 Census has a lot of information in them. You can find A. B. Doughty on page 007 of the Lake City, Wahasha Co., MN Census, ID #MNS7a1456860 (see attached). It looks like Asa B. was a Pvt in the MN 1st Sharpshooters and had been born in Illinois. He was age 20 and joined up on April 3, 1862 until July 1865 and had been captured at Bull Run and released 6 March 1863 and was transferred to the 1st Batt.

You will note that I had also checked under Melissa Hallock (his wife) and located her marriage to Asa on 25 March 1868 at Burnside, Buffalo, WI. That record indicates that she married ADA B. DOUGHTY.

I'm sorry that I was not able to locate all the information you wanted. In fact, now I am unable to locate the material I had previously worked on. My desk is piled high with papers and I have been working on several different genealogies and, somehow, the papers must have gotten mixed up or tossed away.

If you have completed the SAR worksheet, you might send me a copy so that I will have it on file in case I can work on this sometime in the future. Also, if you are able to attend our SAR luncheon meeting on February 10th at Cookies, bring your material about 11AM and we can review it together and also get some help from some of the other members.

Let me know how you are coming along. Best of luck in your search.

Sincerely,

Encl.

Subject: Patriot Info

Today I put a fat envelope in the mail to you with some material on JOSIAH NELSON and ASA DOUGHTY.
After you look it over you can let me know what you think.
I also checked our SAR "War Graves Register". There is a JOSIAH NELSON listed, b. 1732, d. 1807 and buried at Pine Grove Cem., Milford, Worchester, MA.
Unfortunately, there is no generation chart, like many of these have and not even a record of where the info came from.
I'm sorry there wasn't more but maybe I can locate other info later.
Regards,
Walter

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution

INSTITUTED JULY 4, 1876 ORGANIZED APRIL 30, 1889

Dear Compatriot:

Congratulations on becoming a member of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. As you know, we in SAR are dedicated to carrying out patriotic, historical, and educational programs in our home communities. Now, you, as a member of this Society have the opportunity to join your fellow Compatriots in carrying out these Society objectives.

It is my hope that you, a descendant of one of the Patriots who helped in founding this great nation, will become active in your chapter and State Society and will help in reaffirming your ancestor's faith in the Principles of Liberty and our Constitutional Republic. SAR is a truly great organization. One that is dedicated to perpetuating the memory of our Revolutionary War Patriots; promoting fellowship among their descendants; inspiring our communities with a reverence for the principles of government founded by our forefathers and fostering true patriotism.

Enclosed are the following: your Membership Certificate, a record copy of your Membership Application, and a brochure entitled "Give an SAR Membership". I suggest you take a few moments to review these.

Perhaps, you have a brother, a son, a nephew or a cousin whom you would like to sponsor for membership in SAR. The brochure included herein provides the information necessary for you to prepare your relative's papers for membership in your Society. Or, maybe you have friend whom you would like to sponsor for membership in SAR. Again, this brochure will assist in this endeavor.

Again, congratulations on becoming a member of SAR. I am confident you will enjoy your membership and will display your Membership Certificate with great pride. Wear your Rosette proudly!

Very truly yours,

Penny D. McClanahan

Warsaw, 24 Febr. 2002.

Dear Richard,

I regret that our communication by means of writing was very limited last time. I think that it was a mistake using Adam as a link between us, He is now very busy preparing his Ph.D. thesis in the field of water managment and does not have enough time for writing letters and looking the internet. For a few months he was investigating various underground waters in many places of Poland and other European countries. Thus he was absent in Warsaw and the contact with you has been broken. For that reason I decided to continue by myself.

The most important news ~~are~~ concerning Porowski family are as follows:

TADEUSZ POROWSKI became retired on August 2001, thus, having more time for himself, he is visiting NUR more frequently and stays longer overthere.

KRYSTYNA POROWSKA feels now better and present state of health allows her longer walking out the city. She spent some weeks in the sanatorium of CIECHOCINEK for treating her sick bone system. At the moment she lives peacefully at home with her son and husband.

Their son JERZY POROWSKI was one of main organizers of World Polish Scouts Jamboree (Meeting) in August 2000, in GNIEZNO, Poland. He participated in this meeting with his own group of Scouts and scout bow drawers. In May 2001 he got several awards from the leaders of the Polish Scouts Movement (ZHP). He was also awarded with the Silver Cross of Merit as a man of great merits for the development of the scout movement in Poland. Attached to this letter you will find the appropriate certificate with the image of this cross.

You imagine how proud of my son I was ...

KRYSTYNA WAŚNIEWSKA (de domo POROWSKA) - already retired, is now leading a local library in NUR.

EUGENIUSZ WAŚNIEWSKI ("GENIO") - he is a director of the bank in NUR.
They both suffer from a faible health, but after several medical treatments try to carry normal life.

RAFAŁ WAŚNIEWSKI - not yet married, is working as a driver in the International Transport Company (TIR), permanently travelling across the whole Europe.

JUSTYNA WAŚNIEWSKA - also unmarried, in May 2001 she got the diploma of high school, than tried to enter the Warsaw University, but did not succeed. Now is studying at the Private University College of Administration and Management, Fac. of Finances. She has to work to maintain herself.

ALINA POROWSKA - In 2001 there occurred cancer changes in her breast. She remains under good medical care, but the future is not optimistic. Sorrow and desperated, nevertheless she tries heroically to live normally.

HENRYK POROWSKI - His Company falled down and bancroted, now he is getting "before-retirement" subvention.
For some time suffered from stomac ulcer, at the moment, after a long medical treatment, feels much better. He renovated a small house inherited from parents and now lives there with ALINA.

ADAM POROWSKI - Post-graduate student in the Polish Academy of Sciences. Most probably will be a successor in the scientific field of his old professor who leads his Ph. D. thesis and will be retired soon. Adam is always invited to accompany him in ~~tr~~ scientific travelling abroad. At an International Conference of Water Managment in Pittsburg, the Adam's lecture presented in English was very successful, the author got invitations and proposals of research from several universities, for that reason he is permanently out of Warsaw and our contacts are extremely rare.

DAWID POROWSKI. In May 2001 he got a diplome (with best notes!) of the International Medical Academy at Minsk. He settled in the town of HAJNOVKA (eastern Poland) and got practice in the local, modern hospital. Stays in the apartment inherited from his beloved grand father, who died a few years ago. After some time he will be obliged to select one field of medicine and to pass futher degrees of specialisation (I, II, III), i. e. professional improvement of a medical doctor of full rights.

These are all new new what I may announce to you. We have to wait for futher development of the new generation. I certainly will inform you about any important event which will occur. Stay in touch!

Of course we want also to know what has happen to you, your wife, dothers, mother and aunt Helenka. Thank you for Christmas greetings and a beautiful picture of the family. At the moment I do not have at disposal a similar photo of our family, as there was no occasion for a meeting. Be patient!

I embrass you all very cordially

Yours in love

Powodze Krzysztof
